HONORING AMERICAN HOSTAGES — Four fifth grade social studies classes at North Bay Elementary School in Bay St. Louis recently honored 55 American hostages being held by student militants in Iran by tying a large yellow ribbon around a tree in their school yard. The American hostages have been held in Iran for over one year. Social Studies teacher Joyce Warner said the ribbon will remain on the tree until the hostages are freed. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Rep. Trent Lott:

Lame duck Congress falls flat on economy

By CONGRESSMAN
TRENT LOTT

5th District, Mississippi
"The 96th Congress spent the first half of 1980 confronting economic issues and the second half of the year avoiding them. It was not a fruitful combination."

With those words of introduction, Congressional Quarterly, a Washington-based publication, gave its viewpoint on the failure of this Congress to restore economic stability.

Solving economic problems was supposed to be the priority of this Congress.

While some problems certainly went unsolved, I believe 1980 was a remarkable year for Mississippians and the nation. The election of Ronald Reagan as President, for example, already has done much to restore confidence in the government's ability to work for the people.

I was truly honored to have been elected Republican Whip by my colleagues in the House, a position I will use to push for passage of the Reagan legislative agenda. Working with other members of the congressional leadership and trying to sway conservative Democrats whenever possible, I am confident we can begin to rebuild the American spirit.

Legislation

Legislatively speaking, 1980 was not an all bad year. The defense budget, for example, was increased to more than

Cochran reviews Senate committee assignments

By U.S. Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.)

One of the most important aspects of our work in Congress involves the committees on which members serve and the process by which these committees make decisions on legislative proposals.

Floor debate and parliamentary maneuvering traditionally command the attention of the public and news media, and they are important, but the drafting of a bill is done in committee. That is the essential first step in the process. Unless the committee work is done properly, the risk is great for defeat or failure on the floor before the full Senate.

With that in mind, I want to discuss with you my new committee assignments and responsibilities, which become effective when the 97th Congress convenes on

Mayor Larry Bennett reports:

Major developments possible here in '81

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett said Friday, "I would like to see Bay St. Louis go through with the application for a Farmers Home Loan (FmHA), as the most important thing for 1981."

"This FmHA loan and grant, if approved, would enable Bay St. Louis to extend water and sewerage to all of our residents. This is something we really need," Bennett added.

Bennett feels this could be the most important project for the city for 1981 when asked about priorities for the coming year.

The Bay Mayor continued, "The FmHA loan would also include needed improvements in drainage throughout the city, in addition to resurfacing of streets and sewer and water extensions."

Mayor Bennett responded, "By having water and sewer lines extended to all areas including the annexed sections of Bay St. Louis, a commitment made to the people by leaders more than ten years ago would be kept."

In reviewing 1980, Bennett reported there were several accomplishments he was happy to see.

"We should complete the eight-inch water line on U.S.-90 by the first full week of January. It would have been completed by now, but we have run into several unforeseen delays. This main water line on the North of US-90 between Main and Washington Streets will help in the development of our commercial area," Bennett stated.

The mayor reported that the water line installation was done by city crewmen because of cost factors involved. He added, "We would have never been able to afford the project if we had to bid the job out."

When asked about the south of US-90 Bennett allowed, "I would like to run an eight-inch water main in addition to a sewer service capable of handling all future development of the highway from city limit to city limit."

Another highlight of 1980, Bennett said, "was completion of the 1978 Small Cities Project which involved extension of water and sewer service to the 500 blocks of Washington, Kellar and Sycamore Streets."

Bennett continued, "Completion of the 1979 Small Cities Project involving water and sewer extensions for 500 blocks of deMontuzin, State, St. John and Easterbrook Streets was very important."

"The 1978 Small Cities Project did not include street repairs in the project, but through cooperation of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and the city, we were able to resurface the 500 blocks of Washington, Kellar and Sycamore Streets. As everyone knows, Washington is an important thoroughfare in our city," Bennett added.

Bennett is happy with the fact that over $300,000 was spent on the two projects with Bay St. Louis footing about $50,000 of the cost. The remainder was grant money secured by the city through Ronnie Murray, representative of the Gulf Regional Planning Commission.

An application for a comprehensive grant from the Small Cities Project has been applied for to cover improvements of the leaking gas lines of Bay St. Louis in 1981 and is something on which Bennett hopes to get approval.

Murray has made pre-application for the Bay.

The purchase of a third fire engine for the city in 1980 was important, according to Bennett.

"The new fire engine was desperately needed and is another step in securing a lower rate on fire insurance for our home owners," Bennett stated.

"Another help to our city would be the construction of a fire station north of US-90 along with installation of larger water lines to aid in securing a better fire insurance rate," Bennett continued.

The mayor said, "Bay St. Louis has grown in 1980, just drive down the streets and check the number of new homes constructed, even with the high interest rates, and many homes are right now under construction."

Bennett said that in future plans he would like to see the City of Bay St.

Longo looks ahead

Waveland HUD project a major achievement

By BRENT MACEY

The U.S. Housing and Urban Development Department (HUD) sponsored program of rehabilitation in the Middletown area of Waveland is considered one of the major 1980 achievements of his administration, according to Mayor John Longo.

The mayor said Friday the HUD project is 95 percent complete.

He projected the more than $1 million project, 100 percent federally financed over the past two year period, "hopefully will be wrapped up in the next next 60 days."

"The improvements are so obvious in the area," Longo pointed out.

"Work done in the Middletown area on drainage, sewerage and water facilities, street paving and home rehabilitation have really made a noticeable change," he stated.

Along with the HUD project, Longo listed water, gas and sewerage improvements as other major accomplishments achieved in the city during the past year.

The installation of sodium vapor lamps lighting Waveland and Nicholson Avenues and US-90, are considered improvements which had not been a major cost project to the city but one which had made the city a lot more 'pleasant,' Longo said.

"The cost for a sodium light was twice as much as the cost of a mercury light, but they are seven times brighter," he explained.

"Other cities including Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian have very dark streets if you've noticed," Longo said.

Public response 'terrific'

Fenton family still in need

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Annunciation Parish nun Saturday said response 'has been terrific' to a recent article requesting assistance for a destitute Fenton Community family, but more help is needed.

Oliver and Linda Malley have been slowly remodeling an old three-bedroom home they moved to Fenton after a recent fire leveled their family home and destroyed all their possessions.

The couple also supports two daughters and a grandson with welfare payments and donations.

Oliver Malley has a disabling back problem and Linda Malley is an epileptic.

Sister Josepha McNutt, MSBT, advisor to Annunciation Parish's St.

Vincent de Paul Society, reported, "The public's reception to the article has been terrific. The family received cash donations from various individuals, furniture, beds, appliances and bathroom fixtures."

The society's primary function is to aid the needy in central and northern Hancock County.

All inquiries regarding assistance for the Malley family should be directed to Sister Josepha after Jan. 1 at the Annunciation Convent by calling 255-1894.

"But our big problem right now is that the Malley's house needs to be re-roofed," Sister Josepha stated.

An inspection of the Malley's home this week by The Sea Coast Echo found the building's asphalt roll roofing

New Year's resolution: Stop Smoking

Make a New Year's Resolution to stop smoking. Life and health are our two most valuable possessions.

No amount of money can buy them, but many of us are dangerously and recklessly jeopardizing our health and shortening our lives by smoking.

New Year is a time of new beginnings. Why wait until you become stricken with a disabling or fatal disease?

Make a new beginning for yourself by resolving to make a better life for yourself and those you love by stopping smoking.

According to a Gallup poll, half of the people who still smoke, want to quit.

Parting company with cigarettes must be a positive action based on a desire to want to quit, an insight into the health threat, a recognition of values and a recognition of the cost of smoking cigarettes.

No major medical or health agency questions the fact that smoking is harmful to health.

Smoking is a major cause of emphysema, chronic bronchitis, lung cancer and heart disease.

Serious thought should be given to exchanging cigarettes for a healthier future. We all want to be around to watch our children grow up and quitting smoking could make a difference.

More than 30 million Americans have quit smoking. This New Year be your own best friend...do something nice for you and your family...set a goal and join the ranks of non-smokers.

Save a life...your own!

For information and help on "Freedom from Smoking," contact the Mississippi Lung Association, P. O. Box 9865, Jackson, 39206.

Bits 'n pieces

A lot of us like to celebrate during the New Year's holidays. Let us all be very careful, so that we will be able to enjoy Jan. 2.

Each year many lives are lost because of mixing alcohol and gasoline.

Please, if you drink do not drive, let someone also take you home.

Is it bad enough that our Highway Patrol, sheriff's department, Bay St. Louis and Waveland police have to work the holiday season. You can make it worse by being involved in an accident.

We have had many experiences of going to accidents. It is something no one likes to see.

Have a happy New Year!

Looks like South Central Bell is looking towards a bright future for Hancock County with the recent improvements being made in our county.

We are glad to see the work being done now, when as little disturbance as possible can be caused.

It must be something to install a new line in a city like Gulfport or New Orleans.

We are glad to see the many improvements being made in Hancock by South Central Bell.

It is hard to imagine what it would be like not to have a telephone, especially in a newspaper office.

Well, it was a little cold, but we sure had some very nice weather for Christmas.

Beautiful sunshine enabled all the boys and girls getting new bicycles an opportunity to try them out.

We saw some youngsters enjoying go-carts, others with electronic toys, (one kid had trouble keeping her electronic toy from the adults, as they all wanted to play with it.)

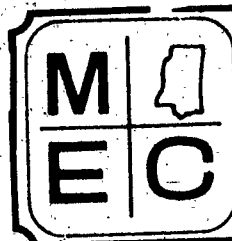

We hope that all toys are used with caution, and adults, please let the kids enjoy their toys.

Shoplifting is a crime!

TAX COMMISSION REQUESTS DEADLINE EXTENSION

The State Tax Commission has requested an extension of the Hinds County Chancery Court's 1983 deadline for uniform tax assessments in Mississippi.

Request for the extension came as part of the Commission's long-range master plan for reappraisal and assessment equalization. The extension, the Commission said, would help to avoid disruption of finances in the state's 82 counties.

The master plan was required by Chancellor James Arden Barnett and the state Supreme Court to outline the Commission's procedure in implementing court-ordered taxing uniformity among the counties.

The Supreme Court upheld Judge Barnett's ruling that, beginning with the 1983 tax rolls, all property must be assessed at an uniform rate. After the Barnett decision, the Legislature, in the 1980 session, provided that the uniform rate may be set at a percentage of true value less than 100 percent.

Extending the 1983 deadline was sought by the Commission on grounds that all counties could not meet the deadline and rejection of imperfect rolls would "result in serious consequences which need not be described."

However, the Commission assured Barnett in the plan filed with the court that if he did not relax the 1983 deadline, the agency would reject all county property tax rolls not meeting the deadline for equalizing assessments.

The Commission stated, "It is the sincere belief of this Commission that despite good-faith efforts of all counties to complete parcel-by-parcel reappraisal, encouraged and assisted to the maximum extent possible by the State Tax Commission, some counties will be unable to accurately value all property at its true value by 1983."

The Commission advised Barnett that acceptance of equalized rolls from some counties would not be fair to counties paying their fair share of taxes, and conceded that postponing the deadline would be unfair to counties which had reappraised.

The Commission also informed Barnett that, "A general postponement would delay relief where inequity is known to exist."

In one of the most significant sections of the master plan, the Commission sought to balance these interests and protect county finances by requesting permission in 1983 to allow counties which had not reappraised to raise or lower the total value of various classes of property to achieve equalization with other counties and between classes.

The Commission conceded that "...this procedure will not ensure accurate appraisal or equal assessment of every parcel of property." Further, the Commission stated that it is aware that some counties, knowing of the procedures to be applied, may further delay action to conclude parcel-by-parcel reappraisal.

The Commission further declared, "It is our opinion that it is not feasible to implement any of the terms or provisions of any paragraph of this decree earlier than the projected target date."

The master plan provided the Court with details as to how the Commission will assist and oversee reappraisal by any of three methods recommended by the Commission - by contract with a private firm, by the county's using consultants to supervise reappraisal programs, and by efforts totally conducted by the county.

Regardless of methods used by the counties, the Commission projected the summer of 1988 as the earliest possible date for final completion of reappraisal in Mississippi.

CURRENT USE

Senate Bill 2672, passed by the 1980 Legislature, included a provision that "current use" of property could be used in determining a parcel's true value.

Current use is one way of protecting properties from higher tax valuations in certain circumstances. S. 2672 is specific in how these "current use" valuations are to be determined.

In some counties which have reappraised, assessors and supervisors have reportedly used a percent of market value - such as 50 or 60 percent - on a routine basis to set "current use" valuations.

The Tax Commission reported last week that this system is de facto classification, which largely perpetuates the status quo.

The Commission's master plan describes training sessions being held for assessors' personnel, explaining subject areas being covered. The plan states that assessors or their personnel will be required to attend regional workshops.

AERIAL PHOTOGRAPHY

The State Tax Commission has contacted the U.S. Department of Agriculture to determine whether the USDA has county aerial photographs suitable for reappraisal purposes.

Counties can use USDA aerial photographs taken since 1978 in developing ownership maps, a necessary step in the reappraisal process. Some counties have secured the aerial photography under reappraisal contracts or have work pending by the USDA which should be completed prior to the 1983 reappraisal deadline.

The Tax Commission reports that some counties do not have satisfactory aerial photos available and have not taken steps to start the procedure. These counties include: Alcorn, Benton, Calhoun, Chickasaw, Franklin, Itawamba, Lafayette, Lee, Monroe, Pontotoc, Prentiss, Tippah, Union, and Walthall.

Hancock, Harrison, and Jackson Counties are under contract to be photographed, but the scale of the photographs may only be satisfactory for mapping rural sections of the counties.

BUSINESS VIEWPOINT

by Richard M. DeVos
and Jay VanAndel

CHANGES IN GOVERNMENT WILL TEST AMERICANS' RESOLVE

Election results had hardly been certified by the states before discussion shifted to the question of whether or not the President-elect could accomplish what he said he would. A cutback in the size of government will touch everyone: businessmen receiving government guaranteed loans, families whose children enjoy government subsidized school lunches, academicians receiving grants from Washington for academic research, artists whose works are supported from tax money, students with federally-backed loans or direct grants, even many now on food stamps. All will feel the crunch. Most will be forced to find substitutes for government largesse.

In the long term, the results of this reduction in the size of our government will benefit all Americans, because inflation will be reduced sharply, dollars will be worth more at home and abroad, jobs will be created. Perhaps most important, the true, independent spirit of the people will be rekindled. Nevertheless, to accomplish these goals will require tremendous leadership on the part of President Reagan, and patience and self-sacrifice on the part of the rest of us.

Breast Feeding Best For Healthy Infants

An individual grows faster during the first year of life than during any other time. Birth weight usually triples in a year. This growth is made possible by adequate amounts of calories and nutrients.

Breast-feeding is recommended for most infants, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association. During the early months of life, human milk is the preferred source of nutrients, and it may provide the infant with other health advantages. Nutritionally complete infant formulas are available for use when it is not possible for the mother to breast feed. If vitamin or mineral supplements are needed, the doctor will prescribe them.

Between ages 4 to 6 months, most infants are ready to begin eating very small amounts of semisolid foods. After 6 months of age, a milk diet cannot satisfy all of the infant's needs. Iron-enriched cereals are added, followed gradually by pureed vegetables, fruits, and meats. Milk, however, will continue to be the most important food until the infant is 1 year old.

If breast feeding is discontinued before 6 months of age, it is best for the infant to have an iron-fortified formula. Infants are vulnerable to iron deficiency once they have used the stored iron that they have at birth. Their diets should include good sources of iron: egg yolk, green vegetables, meats, and iron-enriched products.

By 1 year of age, most infants are eating a variety of chopped solid foods and drinking fresh cow's milk. Their appetites and enthusiasm about foods may fluctuate, but many new foods, introduced one at a time and in small amounts, are usually well accepted.

Children need three good meals a day plus snacks, especially if they are very active. Snacks should be small servings of the same nutritious foods needed at mealtime, such as fruits, juices, milk, crackers with peanut butter or cheese, small sandwiches, raw vegetables, nuts, or cereals.

Poor appetites are fairly common among preschool children. The refusal to eat period is a difficult time for parents, but there is usually no cause for concern unless the problem persists.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions
About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

I read somewhere a while back I should read the legal or public notices in our local newspaper if I am to be an informed citizen. I try, but the type is too little. It Makes My Eyes Hurt.

Dear IMMEH: Mine, too. But it's a compromise between space and cost. So it might be less expensive for those of us who need more help than we get from ordinary glasses to get magnifying glasses.

As we have noted before the small type is not to keep you from reading the notices. What happens is the state sets the word rate for such notices. And to help contain costs, newspapers use smaller and smaller type to keep from having to raise the rates.

If larger type were used it would cost more. And with the large volume of notices it would amount to a tidy sum. The newspaper wouldn't really make any more money, for it would be using more space for the same notices - so the only loser would be taxpayers paying more for the same notices in larger type.

One reader told us recently that he liked the different size type for it made the notices easier to find in the paper. And if you look, you'll see that he is right.

What he really wanted to talk about was the language employed in the notices and if "we couldn't see that they are written in English." I told him, of course, that in most cases the notices are written by attorneys following formats provided by legislatures and approved by courts. But, like him, I suspect the headaches I get from the notices is as much from trying to understand them as it is from reading the small type.

The small type certainly doesn't indicate the importance of the notices. For they are often the most important, in terms of government, notices in the newspaper.

One of the primary controls we in America have over public officials is the requirement that they tell us, by publication, before they spend our money, or pass laws affecting us and our property.

Notice by any other means than newspaper could be perverted by a number of various devices. Not only does the notice in the paper assure its general publication, it also alerts the editor so that the matter may become the subject of news stories and editorials.

So get your glasses strengthened and keep on reading. You'll find it gets easier as you learn the language usually employed.

Winner of the doll house, created by patients in the occupational therapy ward of Gulfport Veterans Administration Hospital, is Mrs. Louise Altier of Pass Christian who said this week she is offering the prize for sale at $250. I have retained my membership on the Senate Agriculture Committee and the Ethics Committee. Also, I have been appointed to serve on the Senate Appropriations Committee. Due to the turnover caused by the November elections, I will be the fifth-ranking member of the Agriculture Committee and eighth-ranking on Appropriations.

On the Agriculture Committee, I will be serving as chairman of the Production, Marketing and Price Stabilization Subcommittee and on two other subcommittees, probably Foreign Agriculture Policy and either the Soil Conservation or the Forestry panels.

There is a great deal of work to be done in Agriculture next year, since the 1977 Farm Act expires in September and Congress must enact new farm legislation covering a wide range of agricultural programs. Our production subcommittee, for example, has jurisdiction over major commodity crops such as cotton, rice, wheat and soybeans as well as the ASCS.

I have been assigned to five different subcommittees on the Senate Appropriations Committee. During 1981 and 1982 I will act as chairman of the Agriculture Appropriations Subcommittee, which has the responsibility for funding all U.S. Department of Agriculture programs and operations except the Forest Service. Other subcommittee assignments are: Energy and Water Development; Transportation; State, Justice and Commerce; and Interior.

The Energy and Water Development panel recommends funding for public works projects such as those under the Army Corps of Engineers. The Transportation Subcommittee handles appropriations for federal highways, railroad rehabilitation, and airport development. The State, Justice and Commerce Subcommittee funds all programs in those important Cabinet-level departments, as well as the federal judiciary. Included in the Commerce Department are such key agencies as the Small Business Administration and the Economic Development Administration. The fifth subcommittee has responsibility for funding Interior, the Forest Service and the National Park Service, which operates the Natchez Trace Parkway.

Six Senators serve on the Ethics Committee, three from each party, and we must formulate standards of conduct for the Senate and consider any violations that are brought to our attention.

We are going to be faced with serious decisions of major consequence on these committees next year. The new administration taking office in January has clearly stated it wants to tighten up on federal spending and attempt to bring inflation under control.

The legislation our committees will consider in the 97th Congress will have considerable impact on agriculture, farm exports and world trade, economic stability and development, public works, transportation, national defense and foreign policy.

NSTL Visitors Center open to Sugar Bowlers

To accommodate visitors to the Sugar Bowl and other holiday events, the NSTL Visitors Center will be open Dec. 31 and Jan. 2 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Most other work activity at NSTL has been curtailed from Dec. 25 through Jan. 5.

The newly enhanced Visitors Center contains educational and informative exhibits and hardware depicting the activities of NASA and other resident agencies at NSTL.

From atop the Visitors Center's 90-foot observation tower, visitors have a panoramic view of this unique scientific installation.

At NSTL some 20 federal and state agencies are involved in space, oceanographic and environmental research. NSTL is responsible for testing the Space Shuttle main engines and main propulsion system in three huge test towers.

The NSTL Visitors Center will resume its regular schedule Jan. 5, 1981. The center is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, excluding holidays. There is no admission charge and cameras are permitted.

NSTL is located in Hancock County near Bay St. Louis and Waveland on Mississippi Highway 607 with easy access from Interstate 10 and Interstate 59.

Area residents and civic and school groups are regularly encouraged to visit NSTL.

Groups can reserve a date and time by writing the Public Affairs Office, National Space Technology Laboratories, NSTL Station, Ms 39529, or by calling (601) 688-2211, Ext. 2321 or 2370.

"But when you come into Waveland you feel like, well, you're home."

He mentioned construction of a new city barn and renovations to City Hall as further improvements to the city in the last year.

Longo said increases in employee benefits made 1980 a 'good year for personnel in the city.'

"Although it has been a tough year because of inflation and the money crunch, we have still managed to expand employee benefits."

Longo pointed to an increase in salaries to city employees, paid life insurance and a group hospital plan as benefits achieved during the last year.

"Waveland has a bright future ahead," Longo continued. "It's quite a challenge but we're looking forward to it. Of course it's a constant battle. One of the problems we will be facing in the coming year is the pollution problem."

Longo stated both sides of a current wastewater disposal issue have a 'strong position.'

"We feel our side is equally as strong and we hope to have the issue resolved in our favor."

"The most cost effective means toward a solution would be on a local basis," Longo said.

"A regional program could not possibly treat sewerage any cheaper than we can," he feels.

Longo said he believes the sewerage problem 'should really be considered on a city-by-city basis in the same manner as other problems with which cities must deal.'

"Local people must solve problems themselves," Longo said.

"They should not be going to Jackson to have these problems worked out for them."

Longo said the construction of an elevated water tank and expanded and more efficient water system in Waveland are also major projects for the future.

He stated that an elevated tank would increase the water pressure to homes in the Waveland area.

According to Longo, the project would depend on local and federal loans with no assistance from federal grants.

"This new system will not only improve water pressure, but will also benefit citizens in the community with better fire protection and lower fire insurance rates," he explained.

Longo stated other projects for the future include plans to erect sodium lights on Central Avenue, renovation of the Civic Center, and improvements on South Beach Boulevard.

"We don't know how we are going to finance the Beach Road project," Longo said.

"We hope to receive some sort of federal aid but we still want to make improvements on the road even if we have to finance the project locally," he said.

Longo said current Beach Boulevard project estimates exceed $1 million dollars.

"We really need to make the road safe for the public," he added.

WEIGHT REDUCTION CLASS

After weeks of high calorie foods you may be planning to add diet to your list of New Year's Resolutions. In response to many requests, I will be starting a weight reduction class Monday, Jan. 5 at 10 a.m. in the Extension Building Auditorium, 405 Necaise Ave., Bay St. Louis. This class will meet at 10 a.m. each Monday morning for 12 weeks.

Anyone 10 percent over normal weight may attend. There will be a one time registration fee of $5 which will be used to buy a pair of doctor's scales for the class. By the end of 12 weeks you should have re-educated yourself to new and healthy eating habits and be able to maintain your weight at a desirable level.

If you plan to attend mark these dates on your calendar: Jan. 5, 12, 19, 26, Feb. 2, 9, 16, 23 and March 2, 9, 16, 23.

I would appreciate your calling 467-5456 to pre-register.

LANDSCAPING

My office is sponsoring a Landscaping Series starting January 6. The classes will meet each Tuesday night, 6:30-8:30 p.m. There is no charge for the class but pre-registration is required.

WINDOW SHADES

Window shades are a good way to help cut energy bills. They are decorative, easy to keep clean and relatively inexpensive. In tests conducted by the Illinois Institute of Technology, shades are found to form a better barrier against heat flow than draperies. Of course, draperies and curtains can be used with shades for interesting window treatments.

Glass is an excellent heat conductor. In winter, home heat is drawn out through glass windows. Hot summer sun causes the reverse. Heat is pulled into the house, causing air conditioners to use more energy.

In cold weather, three to four times more heat escapes through window glass than through the sash area around the window! Snug-fitting window shades within the frame can block heat loss by 24 to 31 percent! Lower shades at night and during cold hours of early morning and evening.

In summer, heat buildup can be reduced as much as one half by keeping shades lowered during the hot sunny hours. To wash shades, organize supplies and work space near a kitchen or utility sink. Cover the counter or table with an old, clean, plastic shower curtain or tablecloth. Fill a pan or pail with warm water and add detergent. Have needed brushes, sponges and cloths handy.

Place shade flat on covered table or counter. Remove loose dust with a clean cloth. Begin washing from the top down. Use sponge or cloth squeezed in wash water. Textured shades may need to be scrubbed with a soft brush. Rinse with clean water, wipe dry with a cloth. Turn and clean the other side. Rehang shade and pull down fully to dry completely.

Diamondhead Ladies tournament a winner

Diamondhead Ladies' Golf Association has staged what is believed to be the most successful nine-hole Scramble and Christmas party since the inception of the organization. Millie Rubin is president of the group and Corinne Ladner is tourney director.

Jo DeBever won the George Schneider Trophy for the most improved golfer of the year. The trophy was presented by Elaine Gwin, daughter of Mr. Schneider.

The Best Ball Tourney was won by the team of Lee Arnold, Vi Kirk, Alice Little and Betty Hilliard. Simono, Solmon, Watson and Gatipon took second place while Calmes, Fross, Figueroa and Booth won third.

In "A" Flight ringers, Earline Russo had low gross and Corinne Ladner low net.

In "B" Flight ringers, Eva Bond had low gross and Katherine Doussan low net. The yearly Trans Winner was Earline Russo who also won Birdie Tree 18-holers.

Clarice Gustin and Kelly Settle tied for the nine-holers. Janice Preble won Nearest-to-the-Pin and Pat Sexton won a "Miss Congeniality" prize. Incoming officers for 1981 are Millie Rubin, president; Helen Mitchell, vice-president; Vi Kirk, treasurer; and New Fellman, secretary and tourney director.

Each member received a Christmas present at a Country Club banquet following the tournament. Diamondhead Professional Bob Stanton welcomed players, guest husbands and presented prizes.

Registration underway

Hancock Extension Service to begin weight loss class

STEP RIGHT UP—Hancock County Home Economist Darlene Underwood, left, takes the first step in her agency's new weight loss program, placing the registrant on the scales. The program, "Weight-Off-Wisely" or WOW will begin two hour weekly sessions Monday, Jan. 6 at 10 a.m. For information, call 467-5456. (Echo staff photo)

Half the men and women in Hancock County over 30 are overweight. This means they are 10 to 19 percent above ideal poundage for their height, body build and age.

Even more alarming: One-third of the county's adult males are 20 percent or more overweight and thus obese. And 40 percent of our women are obese by the time they are 40.

Well, some Hancock Countians have decided it doesn't have to be this way, and they are doing something about it. They are enrolling in WOW.

WOW, in this case, stand for "Weight-Off-Wisely" and Mrs. Darlene Underwood, County Extension home economist who will conduct the program here, says that's the only way to do it.

"Too many people are turning to fad diets, pills and gadgets in an effort to take off some pounds," Mrs. Underwood declares. "These often lead to poor nutrition, economic loss and bad health."

"It takes a steady balanced diet and regular exercise to take weight off and keep it off," she adds.

And that's what WOW is all about. The program combines nutrition and activity in a 12-16 week program of weight reduction and then weight control.

The program was developed by Extension Food and Nutrition Specialist at the University of Georgia and is beginning here in Hancock County this month.

Mrs. Underwood is currently enrolling adults, 18 years and over, who are at least ten percent overweight and who will agree to have a physical examination before dieting and exercising. Not everyone needs to participate in exercise. This is optional.

The Extension agent says interested and qualified "overweights" will be enrolled on a first come, first served basis until 30 have signed up. She expects many of the participants to be women, but hopes to have some men, too. The registration deadline is January 6, 1981.

First of the one and one-half to two-hour weekly sessions will be held Monday, January 6, 1981 at the Agriculture Building auditorium, Bay St. Louis at 10 a.m. Others will follow on each Monday morning.

According to Mrs. Underwood, the first objective of WOW participants will be to obtain their desirable weight through dieting, group interacting and exercising. "In addition, they will learn the principles of good nutrition and will change their eating habits to comply with these principles," she explains. "Once desirable weight has been achieved, it will be maintained. We believe this will lead naturally then to an interest in improving appearance."

The weekly classes emphasize nutrition but also discuss fashion and personal improvement. Each session will include a weight-in, exercise (optional), group interaction, and class discussion.

Additional information about WOW may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Underwood at her office in the Agriculture Building in Bay St. Louis, telephone 467-5456.

Police, fire departments respond to Christmas call

On Tuesday, Dec. 2 Mrs. Santa Claus was to be guest of honor at a Christmas Party given by the Executive Committee of the American Legion Unit No. 77 Auxiliary at the Post Home on Coleman Avenue.

All the members were there but it seems that Mrs. Santa Claus was late.

It seems that Santa Claus was late getting home so Mrs. Santa Claus, being resourceful, called the Waveland Police Department for transportation.

They notified the Fire Department and so both went to pick up Mrs. Santa Claus with sirens and red and blue lights flashing. Mrs. Santa Claus arrived on the back of a big red fire truck with her bag of gifts for all the ladies.

President Hedi Klein and all the members of Unit 77 want to wish all a very Happy Holiday Season.

"May next year bring peace and harmony to the world," she said.

Colds Take Toll

Americans spend more than 320 million days in bed each year because of colds and flu, according to the American Lung Association. Christmas Seal contributions fight many lung diseases.
